Planning of electric bus systems

Bus fleet operation is modelled using a map-based approach to make it possible inspect the system in visualised manner.

An example of a TCO analysis on operation of electric city buses in comparison with conventional diesel buses, including both capital and operational costs. Dependency on daily mileage (utilisation rate) illustrated as a critical parameter. (Note: results not generally applicable)